

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF RHODE ISLAND

JOSEPH A. CARAMADRE,

Plaintiff,

v.

PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA,

Defendant.

CASE NO. 1:16-cv-427

Removed from the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Superior Court of Providence County

NOTICE OF REMOVAL

Defendant, THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA (incorrectly named as “Prudential Insurance Company of America) (“Prudential” or “Defendant”), by and through its attorneys, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332, 1441 and 1446, files this Notice of Removal with respect to the above-captioned case, which was filed and currently is pending in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Superior Court of Providence County, Civil Action File Number PC-2016-3159. In support of its Notice of Removal, Defendant states as follows:

Background And Timeliness

1. On July 7, 2016, Plaintiff Joseph Caramadre (“Plaintiff”) commenced a civil action against Defendant by filing a Summons and Complaint in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Superior Court of Providence County, Civil Action File Number PC-2016-3159 (the “Lawsuit”). There are no other parties named in Plaintiff’s complaint.

2. Plaintiff served Prudential with a summons in this action on or about July 11, 2016.

3. Because Defendant has filed this Notice of Removal within thirty days of receiving service of process, this Notice of Removal is timely. See 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b).

4. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1446(a), a true and correct copy of Plaintiff's Summons and Complaint from the state court action, is attached hereto as Exhibit 1. These documents constitute all "process, pleadings, and orders" served on Defendant in the state court action seeking recovery against it.

5. Plaintiff's claims arise out of a group disability insurance policy issued to The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Trust. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶ 4, 8.) Plaintiff applied for long-term disability ("LTD") benefits, and Prudential initially approved a $2,000 monthly benefit. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶ 8.) Prudential subsequently terminated Plaintiff's LTD benefits on October 31, 2014, after finding that Plaintiff did not meet the definition of disability as set forth in the insurance policy. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶ 9.) Plaintiff now seeks to recover LTD benefits by way of a breach of contract claim, stating that he continues to meet the definition of disability under the policy. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶¶ 15-27.) Plaintiff also asserts a claim for breach of duty of good faith dealing. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶¶ 28-45.)

6. Plaintiff seeks compensatory, consequential, treble, and punitive damages as well as costs and attorneys' fees. (Ex. 1, Compl. at Request for Relief.)

This Case Is Removable Based Upon Diversity Jurisdiction

7. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a), "any civil action brought in a State court of which the district courts of the United States have original jurisdiction, may be removed by the defendant to the district court of the United States for the district and division embracing the place where such action is pending."

8. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a), “[t]he district courts shall have original jurisdiction of all civil actions where the matter in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $75,000, exclusive of interest and costs, and is between...citizens of different States.”

9. In this case, both the “diversity” and “amount in controversy” requirements are met.

The Parties Are Diverse

10. Plaintiff, although currently incarcerated in Ayer, Massachusetts, is a citizen of the State of Rhode Island. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶ 1.)

11. Section 1332 defines corporate citizenship as follows: “[f]or the purposes of this section and section 1441 of this title . . . a corporation shall be deemed to be a citizen of every State and foreign state by which it has been incorporated and of the State or foreign state where it has its principal place of business” 28 U.S.C. § 1332(c).

12. Defendant is a corporation incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and Defendant’s principal place of business is the State of New Jersey. Thus, Defendant is a citizen of a state other than Rhode Island. See 28 U.S.C. § 1332(c)(1).

13. Because Plaintiff and Defendant are citizens of different states, this case is “between citizens of different states.” 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a), (c).

The Amount In Controversy Exceeds $75,000

14. According to the allegations in the Complaint, Plaintiff seeks to recover compensatory damages. (See Ex. 1, Compl. at Request for Relief.) Plaintiff received a monthly disability benefit of $2,000.00 until Prudential terminated that benefit effective October 31, 2014. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶ 10.) As Plaintiff alleges he continues to suffer from his allegedly disabling condition, compensatory damages would encompass 21 monthly payments of $2,000 beginning on November 1, 2014, through the present totaling $42,000. (Ex. 1, Compl. ¶¶ 12, 14.)

15. Plaintiff also seeks “treble damages.” (Ex. 1, Compl. at ¶ 27.) Trebling Plaintiff’s claim for compensatory damages alone results in an amount in controversy greater than $75,000 (here $126,000.00).

16. Plaintiff further seeks to recover punitive damages in an unspecified amount. Punitive damages are included in calculating the amount in controversy for the purposes of establishing diversity jurisdiction. See, e.g., Freitas v. First New Hampshire Mortgage Corp., No. 98-211ML, 1998 WL 657606, at *6 (D.R.I. July 23, 1998) (noting the parties’ agreement “that punitive damages are to be considered in calculating the amount in controversy for purposes of diversity jurisdiction”).

17. Although Defendant disputes the viability and accuracy of Plaintiff’s claims, it is apparent from the face of the Complaint that the amount in controversy in Count I is at least $75,000, exclusive of interests and costs, and this Court has original jurisdiction over that claim. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332(a); (c).

18. This action is removable to this Court. 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a), (b).

Venue And Notice

19. Venue is proper in this District because, pursuant 28 U.S.C. § 90(a)(4), this District embraces the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Superior Court of Providence County, the place where the removed action has been pending. 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a).

20. Promptly upon the filing of this Notice of Removal, Defendant shall file a Notice of Filing of Notice of Removal, with a copy of the Notice of Removal, with the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Superior Court of Providence County, and will serve a copy thereof on Plaintiff via United States mail, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1446(d) and LR Gen 205(c).

A copy of this notice is attached hereto as Exhibit 2.

Conclusion

21. Based on the foregoing, this Court has original jurisdiction over this action based on diversity of the parties under 28 U.S.C. § 1332; therefore, the Court properly may exercise jurisdiction over this Lawsuit. 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a).

22. Should Plaintiff seek to remand this case to state court, Defendant respectfully asks that it be permitted to brief and argue the issue before any order remanding this case. In the event the Court decides remand is proper, Defendant asks that the Court retain jurisdiction and allow Defendant to file a motion asking this Court to certify any remand order for interlocutory review by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b).

WHEREFORE, Defendant requests that the above-described action pending against it be removed to this Court. Defendant also requests all other relief, at law or in equity, to which it justly is entitled.

DATED: July 29, 2016

Prudential Insurance Company of America,
Defendant

PC-16-3159

COMPLAINT

PARTIES, VENUE AND JURISDICTION

1. The plaintiff, Joseph A. Caramadre, has his domicile at Beechwood Drive, Cranston, R.I. He is presently a resident at FMC Devens, Ayer, MA. He is presently an inmate appealing his conviction and sentence, presently pending before the court. He has presented valid claims to prove his innocence.
2. The defendant is Prudential Insurance Company (Prudential). The company, in part, underwrites and sells "long term disability insurance policies" from its office in Philadelphia, PA.
3. Jurisdiction is appropriate in this Court because Prudential has corporate offices in the state of Rhode Island, does business in this state, and therefore has the requisite minimum contacts under relevant sections of the Rhode Island Long Arm Statutes and the amount exceeds $10,000.

BACKGROUND

4. The plaintiff is the named insured in a long term disability policy issued and underwritten by the defendant, Prudential Insurance Company of America.
5. The plaintiff was a practicing attorney and certified public accountant. Over the course of 25 years he engaged in a course of charitable and philanthropic activity that benefit about 70 charitable organizations and a multitude of other people. This activity lead to the plaintiff to being recognized as a humanitarian and philanthropist by charitable organizations.

6. The plaintiff is married and has three children whose residence is on Beechwood Drive, Cranston, R.I. His wife of 25 years is being directly and adversely impacted by the actions of the defendant in this case.
7. As a consequence of a criminal litigation initiated against him in the United States District Court in Rhode Island, the plaintiff received a sentence of 72 months and 3 years of supervised release. He filed a timely claim of appeal and continues to protest his innocence. Although the First Circuit of Appeals denied his original appeal and, subsequently, an en banc request for reconsideration, the plaintiff also filed a writ of certiorari to the United States Supreme Court. Although that Court, denied his writ, the plaintiff, through his counsel, is presently preparing and researching, a writ of Habeas Corpus pursuant to the provisions of Title 28, Section 2255, and 28 USC 2241.
8. The defendant issued a long term disability income policy to the plaintiff. In exchange, the plaintiff paid the timely premiums associated with the policy. In 2011, the plaintiff became disabled. The plaintiff submitted a claim for monthly disability benefits. After researching the claim, the defendant, concluded that the plaintiff's illness was within the parameters defined in their policy and approved the plaintiff for full disability benefits, and began paying the plaintiff the $2,000 monthly benefit on or around October 31, 2011, pursuant to its policy terms.
9. This complaint deals with the failure of the defendant to pay the plaintiff pursuant to the terms of the policy and its breach of the policy terms on or around October 31, 2014, the date the defendant stopped paying the plaintiff disability benefits.

10. Because there was a material change in circumstances relative to the medical, physical and emotional condition of the plaintiff, this Court should redress the egregious violations of the terms of the contract and award the plaintiff not only compensatory damages, but also punitive damages. The defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff the disability benefits specified in the policy and did so from approximately October 31, 2011 to October 31, 2014. Their justification for non-payment has absolutely no foundation in law or, in the facts of this case. Indeed, subsequent events only tend to exacerbate the plaintiff's fragile emotional and depressive state.
11. The record in the instant case establishes that the plaintiff received medical and psychiatric care for "Chronic Intractable Depression" with Dr. James Kennedy, M.D. at FMC Devens Camp from January 21, 2014 through presently. (For some inexplicable reason the defendant referred to the doctor as Paul Kennedy, M.D. No such doctor/psychiatrist practices at FMC Devens.)
12. During the foregoing dates the Major Depressive Disorder suffered by the plaintiff did not dissipate, it worsened. One of the more simple and reasonable conclusions is the following: Initially, during the initial assessment on January 21, 2014, the plaintiff was diagnosed with severe depression. However, he expressed hope in his nationally recognized appellate attorneys, since he had informed plaintiff that "He had a very strong case to win the appeal." This did not happen. Again continued meetings with the doctor revealed that, although severely depressed, the plaintiff had a glimmer of hope that his attorney's favorable assessment of his appeal case could result in the plaintiff clearing his name. After months of waiting, finally on December 7, 2015, the appeals court denied the plaintiff's appeal. This action significantly and substantially contributed to this "Chronic Intractable Depression." Indeed, it aggravated it to a significant degree simply because it served to extinguish hope that he would shortly return to his caring, loving and totally supportive family.

13. The defendant, knowing this, simply ignores it. Instead, they retain the services of an unknown and unidentified "Board Certified" physician. Remarkably, contrary to acceptable medical and psychiatric standards, this "psychiatric reviewer" never even met with the plaintiff and proffers an opinion, unsupported by any reliable evidence, that the plaintiff is adjusting well to his surroundings, his community and his activities, all without a factual foundation and in violation of the terms of the policy.

14. Because this plaintiff has "Chronic Intractable Depression" this Court should review the record and afford the plaintiff immediate legal redress. Sanctions, costs and punitive damages should be awarded to the plaintiff.

COUNT I - BREACH OF CONTRACT

15. The plaintiff adopts the foregoing averments.

16. The plaintiff purchased a disability policy from the defendant and, as a consequence of a disability sustained by the plaintiff, initiated monthly disability benefit payments on or around October 31, 2011. The monthly benefit payments were unilaterally ceased on October 31, 2014.

17. The defendant wrongfully terminated said payments to the plaintiff claiming that the plaintiff was not "disabled" pursuant to the terms of the "Long Term Disability Policy."

18. The policy is a contract between the parties. In the instant case the policy is a contract of adhesion, since the defendant, and the defendant alone, created the contract.

19. The adhesive contract in question was drafted by the defendant. It was presented to the plaintiff under circumstances in which the plaintiff harbored no realistic opportunity to negotiate its terms.
20. Agents employed by the defendant have used the adhesive nature of the contract to illegally, unfairly, inappropriately and negligently deny the plaintiff the rightful, lawful benefits he is otherwise entitled to under the terms of the policy.
21. The defendant has relied, to the substantial detriment of the plaintiff, on the uninformed and ill-advised opinion of a so-called expert, board certified, psychiatrist who illegally and negligently proffered an opinion that the plaintiff was not depressed suffering from "Chronic Intractable Depression."
22. The so-called expert opinion was offered despite the substantial evidence that the plaintiff had suffered this type of depression for twenty-five years. Incredibly, the "expert" also failed to take the time to interview the plaintiff in person and evaluate the "community" he presently lived in, the "activities" he "enjoyed" and the "work" he is compelled to perform as a condition of being in prison.
23. Prudential's reliance on the "expert" opinion was illegal, irrational and unlawful, exacerbated by the abject failure of the "expert" to personally interview the plaintiff in the prison environment at FMC Devens.
24. The plaintiff's depressive state has only worsened. It certainly has not been ameliorated by his incarceration.
25. The defendant knew or should have known by the exercise of due diligence that the plaintiff's "Chronic Intractable Depression" was further aggravated by his legal losses on each and every avenue of the appellate procedure followed in his case.

26. The plaintiff, as a direct consequence of the egregious breach of the adhesive contract prepared by the defendant, has suffered tremendous depression, conscious pain and suffering and an actual worsening of his depressive, mental state.

27. Considering the foregoing, this Court award treble damages, compensatory damages and punitive damages.

COUNT II - BREACH OF DUTY OF GOOD FAITH DEALING

28. The plaintiff adopts the foregoing averments.

29. The defendant owed the plaintiff a duty to act in good faith and to fairly deal with the plaintiff in any and all matters related to the interpretation of the disability policy in question. The defendant has breached that duty and caused considerable damage to the plaintiff.

30. The Disability Insurance Policy, in and of itself, is a contract of adhesion, drafted only by the defendant.

31. The contract in question, by its very nature, should be read in the light most favorable to the plaintiff since he never had an opportunity to negotiate it.

32. The defendant, its agents, employees and assigns wrongfully and negligently interpreted the insurance policy in a manner that prejudiced the plaintiff. His monthly disability benefits were terminated because they misinterpreted the policy.

33. The defendant was aware that the plaintiff suffered from acute, chronic intractable depression, and nonetheless, terminated the disability payments without just cause, in violation of the terms of the policy.

34. The defendant relied on the so-called expert opinion of an alleged board certified psychiatrist who proffered an unsubstantiated opinion that the plaintiff was not in a chronic depressive state.

35. The overwhelming evidence in the matter clearly and unequivocally establishes that the plaintiff suffers from a major depressive disorder that has a material effect on the plaintiff's inability to perform most/all of the duties required of his own occupation.
36. The defendant is aware that the plaintiff has a 25-year history of chronic major depression that has only worsened with the passage of time, especially while he is incarcerated, awaiting the outcome of appeals which have all recently been denied.
37. Given the foregoing factual scenario, the plaintiff alleges that the defendant breached its duty of good faith and fair dealing that was owed to the plaintiff. In this matter, implicit in the preparation, sale and execution of the "long term disability policy" lies a covenant of good faith and fair dealing which the defendant breached, causing substantial damages to the plaintiff.
38. Because the policy is a contract of adhesion drafted by a national insurance carrier and because the plaintiff lacked any ability to negotiate any of the terms of the contract/policy with the defendant, the policy should be construed against the defendant and in favor of the plaintiff because the law imposes a strict covenant of good faith and fair dealing between the parties. The conduct of the defendant in terminating the monthly benefit payments is a clear breach of that condition and justifies an award of treble and punitive damages to send a message to other insurance carriers that such egregious misconduct will not be tolerated.
39. The plaintiff alleges that the contract in question must be performed. Contract liability in this case is strict liability. Indeed, PACTA SUNT SERUANDA, especially since the defendant actually paid the plaintiff disability benefits for approximately three years.

The defendant's decision to terminate the disability payments was arbitrary, capricious and against public policy given the nature of the adhesive contract.

40. The defendant is liable for consequential damages. See Hadley v. Baxendale 9 EX 341 (Court of Exchequer)

41. The defendant is also liable to the plaintiff for treble damages and punitive damages.

Treble damages are awarded when the Court finds the defendant, an insurance company, engaged in bad faith dealings with the plaintiff.

42. The Court can draw an inference, reasonable in nature, that the defendant's reliance on a so-called board certified expert, is patently negligent and unreasonable.

43. The expert never met, never talked to and never communicated with the plaintiff and drew conclusions that are unsubstantiated, unwarranted and negligent. Treble damages are therefore appropriate.

44. Punitive damages are relevant to "punish" a defendant and to send a message to other similarly situated defendants that conduct like this will not be tolerated and punished accordingly.

45. In the instant case, the defendant's conclusions are unsubstantiated, frivolous and disingenuous given their negligent reliance on a psychiatrist that has no basis in law or fact.

Accordingly, this Court should award consequential, treble and punitive damages to the plaintiff. This is especially true in a case like this where the defendant, for a protracted period of time, continued to make disability payments to the plaintiff. The condition of the plaintiff worsened over time and his physical and psychiatric records reflect that fact. There was no

"change in circumstances" justifying the defendant in totally reversing course and terminating payments made to the plaintiff. Absent such a change, the defendant is in clear violation of the terms of the "adhesive contract" it prepared. The plaintiff paid timely premiums on the policy. the defendant egregiously breached the conditions of the policy. It now must be responsible for payment, damages or aforesaid, costs and fees.

COMPLAINT

PARTIES, VENUE AND JURISDICTION

1. The plaintiff, Joseph A. Caramadre, has his domicile at Beechwood Drive, Cranston, R.I. He is presently a resident at FMC Devens, Ayer, MA. He is presently an inmate appealing his conviction and sentence, presently pending before the court. He has presented valid claims to prove his innocence.
2. The defendant is Prudential Insurance Company (Prudential). The company, in part, underwrites and sells "long term disability insurance policies" from its office in Philadelphia, PA.
3. Jurisdiction is appropriate in this Court because Prudential has corporate offices in the state of Rhode Island, does business in this state, and therefore has the requisite minimum contacts under relevant sections of the Rhode Island Long Arm Statutes and the amount exceeds $10,000.

BACKGROUND

4. The plaintiff is the named insured in a long term disability policy issued and underwritten by the defendant, Prudential Insurance Company of America.
5. The plaintiff was a practicing attorney and certified public accountant. Over the course of 25 years he engaged in a course of charitable and philanthropic activity that benefit about 70 charitable organizations and a multitude of other people. This activity lead to the plaintiff to being recognized as a humanitarian and philanthropist by charitable organizations.

6. The plaintiff is married and has three children whose residence is on Beechwood Drive, Cranston, R.I. His wife of 25 years is being directly and adversely impacted by the actions of the defendant in this case.
7. As a consequence of a criminal litigation initiated against him in the United States District Court in Rhode Island, the plaintiff received a sentence of 72 months and 3 years of supervised release. He filed a timely claim of appeal and continues to protest his innocence. Although the First Circuit of Appeals denied his original appeal and, subsequently, an en banc request for reconsideration, the plaintiff also filed a writ of certiorari to the United States Supreme Court. Although that Court, denied his writ, the plaintiff, through his counsel, is presently preparing and researching, a writ of Habeas Corpus pursuant to the provisions of Title 28, Section 2255, and 28 USC 2241.
8. The defendant issued a long term disability income policy to the plaintiff. In exchange, the plaintiff paid the timely premiums associated with the policy. In 2011, the plaintiff became disabled. The plaintiff submitted a claim for monthly disability benefits. After researching the claim, the defendant, concluded that the plaintiff's illness was within the parameters defined in their policy and approved the plaintiff for full disability benefits, and began paying the plaintiff the $2,000 monthly benefit on or around October 31, 2011, pursuant to its policy terms.
9. This complaint deals with the failure of the defendant to pay the plaintiff pursuant to the terms of the policy and its breach of the policy terms on or around October 31, 2014, the date the defendant stopped paying the plaintiff disability benefits.

10. Because there was a material change in circumstances relative to the medical, physical and emotional condition of the plaintiff, this Court should redress the egregious violations of the terms of the contract and award the plaintiff not only compensatory damages, but also punitive damages. The defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff the disability benefits specified in the policy and did so from approximately October 31, 2011 to October 31, 2014. Their justification for non-payment has absolutely no foundation in law or, in the facts of this case. Indeed, subsequent events only tend to exacerbate the plaintiff's fragile emotional and depressive state.
11. The record in the instant case establishes that the plaintiff received medical and psychiatric care for "Chronic Intractable Depression" with Dr. James Kennedy, M.D. at FMC Devens Camp from January 21, 2014 through presently. (For some inexplicable reason the defendant referred to the doctor as Paul Kennedy, M.D. No such doctor/psychiatrist practices at FMC Devens.)
12. During the foregoing dates the Major Depressive Disorder suffered by the plaintiff did not dissipate, it worsened. One of the more simple and reasonable conclusions is the following: Initially, during the initial assessment on January 21, 2014, the plaintiff was diagnosed with severe depression. However, he expressed hope in his nationally recognized appellate attorneys, since he had informed plaintiff that "He had a very strong case to win the appeal." This did not happen. Again continued meetings with the doctor revealed that, although severely depressed, the plaintiff had a glimmer of hope that his attorney's favorable assessment of his appeal case could result in the plaintiff clearing his name. After months of waiting, finally on December 7, 2015, the appeals court denied the plaintiff's appeal. This action significantly and substantially contributed to this "Chronic Intractable Depression." Indeed, it aggravated it to a significant degree simply because it served to extinguish hope that he would shortly return to his caring, loving and totally supportive family.

13. The defendant, knowing this, simply ignores it. Instead, they retain the services of an unknown and unidentified "Board Certified" physician. Remarkably, contrary to acceptable medical and psychiatric standards, this "psychiatric reviewer" never even met with the plaintiff and proffers an opinion, unsupported by any reliable evidence, that the plaintiff is adjusting well to his surroundings, his community and his activities, all without a factual foundation and in violation of the terms of the policy.

14. Because this plaintiff has "Chronic Intractable Depression" this Court should review the record and afford the plaintiff immediate legal redress. Sanctions, costs and punitive damages should be awarded to the plaintiff.

COUNT I - BREACH OF CONTRACT

15. The plaintiff adopts the foregoing averments.

16. The plaintiff purchased a disability policy from the defendant and, as a consequence of a disability sustained by the plaintiff, initiated monthly disability benefit payments on or around October 31, 2011. The monthly benefit payments were unilaterally ceased on October 31, 2014.

17. The defendant wrongfully terminated said payments to the plaintiff claiming that the plaintiff was not "disabled" pursuant to the terms of the "Long Term Disability Policy."

18. The policy is a contract between the parties. In the instant case the policy is a contract of adhesion, since the defendant, and the defendant alone, created the contract.

19. The adhesive contract in question was drafted by the defendant. It was presented to the plaintiff under circumstances in which the plaintiff harbored no realistic opportunity to negotiate its terms.
20. Agents employed by the defendant have used the adhesive nature of the contract to illegally, unfairly, inappropriately and negligently deny the plaintiff the rightful, lawful benefits he is otherwise entitled to under the terms of the policy.
21. The defendant has relied, to the substantial detriment of the plaintiff, on the uninformed and ill-advised opinion of a so-called expert, board certified, psychiatrist who illegally and negligently proffered an opinion that the plaintiff was not depressed suffering from “Chronic Intractable Depression.”
22. The so-called expert opinion was offered despite the substantial evidence that the plaintiff had suffered this type of depression for twenty-five years. Incredibly, the “expert” also failed to take the time to interview the plaintiff in person and evaluate the “community” he presently lived in, the “activities” he “enjoyed” and the “work” he is compelled to perform as a condition of being in prison.
23. Prudential's reliance on the “expert” opinion was illegal, irrational and unlawful, exacerbated by the abject failure of the “expert” to personally interview the plaintiff in the prison environment at FMC Devens.
24. The plaintiff's depressive state has only worsened. It certainly has not been ameliorated by his incarceration.
25. The defendant knew or should have known by the exercise of due diligence that the plaintiff's “Chronic Intractable Depression” was further aggravated by his legal losses on each and every avenue of the appellate procedure followed in his case.

26. The plaintiff, as a direct consequence of the egregious breach of the adhesive contract prepared by the defendant, has suffered tremendous depression, conscious pain and suffering and an actual worsening of his depressive, mental state.

27. Considering the foregoing, this Court award treble damages, compensatory damages and punitive damages.

COUNT II - BREACH OF DUTY OF GOOD FAITH DEALING

28. The plaintiff adopts the foregoing averments.

29. The defendant owed the plaintiff a duty to act in good faith and to fairly deal with the plaintiff in any and all matters related to the interpretation of the disability policy in question. The defendant has breached that duty and caused considerable damage to the plaintiff.

30. The Disability Insurance Policy, in and of itself, is a contract of adhesion, drafted only by the defendant.

31. The contract in question, by its very nature, should be read in the light most favorable to the plaintiff since he never had an opportunity to negotiate it.

32. The defendant, its agents, employees and assigns wrongfully and negligently interpreted the insurance policy in a manner that prejudiced the plaintiff. His monthly disability benefits were terminated because they misinterpreted the policy.

33. The defendant was aware that the plaintiff suffered from acute, chronic intractable depression, and nonetheless, terminated the disability payments without just cause, in violation of the terms of the policy.

34. The defendant relied on the so-called expert opinion of an alleged board certified psychiatrist who proffered an unsubstantiated opinion that the plaintiff was not in a chronic depressive state.

35. The overwhelming evidence in the matter clearly and unequivocally establishes that the plaintiff suffers from a major depressive disorder that has a material effect on the plaintiff's inability to perform most/all of the duties required of his own occupation.

36. The defendant is aware that the plaintiff has a 25-year history of chronic major depression that has only worsened with the passage of time, especially while he is incarcerated, awaiting the outcome of appeals which have all recently been denied.

37. Given the foregoing factual scenario, the plaintiff alleges that the defendant breached its duty of good faith and fair dealing that was owed to the plaintiff. In this matter, implicit in the preparation, sale and execution of the "long term disability policy" lies a covenant of good faith and fair dealing which the defendant breached, causing substantial damages to the plaintiff.

38. Because the policy is a contract of adhesion drafted by a national insurance carrier and because the plaintiff lacked any ability to negotiate any of the terms of the contract/policy with the defendant, the policy should be construed against the defendant and in favor of the plaintiff because the law imposes a strict covenant of good faith and fair dealing between the parties. The conduct of the defendant in terminating the monthly benefit payments is a clear breach of that condition and justifies an award of treble and punitive damages to send a message to other insurance carriers that such egregious misconduct will not be tolerated.

39. The plaintiff alleges that the contract in question must be performed. Contract liability in this case is strict liability. Indeed, PACTA SUNT SERUANDA, especially since the defendant actually paid the plaintiff disability benefits for approximately three years.

The defendant's decision to terminate the disability payments was arbitrary, capricious and against public policy given the nature of the adhesive contract.

40. The defendant is liable for consequential damages. See Hadley v. Baxendale 9 EX 341 (Court of Exchequer)

41. The defendant is also liable to the plaintiff for treble damages and punitive damages.

Treble damages are awarded when the Court finds the defendant, an insurance company, engaged in bad faith dealings with the plaintiff.

42. The Court can draw an inference, reasonable in nature, that the defendant's reliance on a so-called board certified expert, is patently negligent and unreasonable.

43. The expert never met, never talked to and never communicated with the plaintiff and drew conclusions that are unsubstantiated, unwarranted and negligent. Treble damages are therefore appropriate.

44. Punitive damages are relevant to "punish" a defendant and to send a message to other similarly situated defendants that conduct like this will not be tolerated and punished accordingly.

45. In the instant case, the defendant's conclusions are unsubstantiated, frivolous and disingenuous given their negligent reliance on a psychiatrist that has no basis in law or fact.

Accordingly, this Court should award consequential, treble and punitive damages to the plaintiff. This is especially true in a case like this where the defendant, for a protracted period of time, continued to make disability payments to the plaintiff. The condition of the plaintiff worsened over time and his physical and psychiatric records reflect that fact. There was no

"change in circumstances" justifying the defendant in totally reversing course and terminating payments made to the plaintiff. Absent such a change, the defendant is in clear violation of the terms of the "adhesive contract" it prepared. The plaintiff paid timely premiums on the policy. the defendant egregiously breached the conditions of the policy. It now must be responsible for payment, damages or aforesaid, costs and fees.
